INTRODUCTION

THE FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

New Zealand Red Cross Incorporated (“New Zealand Red Cross”) was founded on 22 December 1931. This constitution is based on the Geneva Conventions of 1949 and their Additional Protocols to which New Zealand is a party, the Statutes of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement (“the Movement”), Resolutions of the International Conference of the Red Cross and Red Crescent, Resolutions of the Council of Delegates and decisions of the General Assembly of the International Federation of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, and on applicable national law.

New Zealand Red Cross shall be guided in its work by the principles of International Humanitarian Law, and shall respect the Fundamental Principles of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement (“the Fundamental Principles”), namely:

HUMANITY

The International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, born of a desire to bring assistance without discrimination to the wounded on the battlefield, endeavours, in its international and national capacity, to prevent and alleviate human suffering wherever it may be found. Its purpose is to protect life and health and to ensure respect for the human being. It promotes mutual understanding, friendship, co-operation and lasting peace among all peoples.

IMPARTIALITY

It makes no discrimination as to nationality, race, religious beliefs, class or political opinions. It endeavours to relieve the suffering of individuals, being guided solely by their needs, and to give priority to the most urgent cases of distress.

NEUTRALITY

In order to continue to enjoy the confidence of all, the Movement may not take sides in hostilities or engage at any time in controversies of a political, racial, religious or ideological nature.

INDEPENDENCE

The Movement is independent. The National Societies, while auxiliaries in the humanitarian services of their governments and subject to the laws of their respective countries, must always maintain their autonomy so that they may be able at all times to act in accordance with the principles of the Movement.

VOLUNTARY SERVICE

It is a voluntary relief movement not prompted in any manner by desire for gain.

UNITY

There can be only one Red Cross or one Red Crescent Society in any one country. It must be open to all. It must carry on its humanitarian work throughout its territory.

UNIVERSALITY

The International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, in which all Societies have equal status and share equal responsibilities and duties in helping each other, is worldwide.

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL CHARACTER

New Zealand Red Cross is officially recognised by the New Zealand Government as the National Red Cross Organisation of New Zealand, a voluntary aid society auxiliary to the public authorities in the humanitarian field (but not in all fields of activities) (as under Article 1.1.4) and as auxiliary to the Medical Services of the Armed Forces (as under Article 1.1.5), in accordance with the Geneva Conventions, and as the only national Red Cross Society or Red Crescent Society which may carry out its activities in New Zealand and abroad.

In relation to the public authorities and the government, New Zealand Red Cross maintains an autonomy, which allows it to act at all times in accordance with the Fundamental Principles. The authorities respect New Zealand Red Cross' adherence to the Fundamental Principles.

New Zealand Red Cross is a legally incorporated society. It acts under its own Constitution with all rights and obligations of a corporate body with a legal personality.
